Not illustrated. 1900 Excerpt: .Troughton Simms attach to all their three-screw combinations of parallel plates connected with theodolites, a centering locking-plate, in which provision is made to allow of a motion of 1 in. in any direction for the adjustment of the plumb-bob over the station point, the centering-plate being tightened after setting over the station by a screwed washer-plate. This plate is somewhat similar in shape to the washer-plate shown in fig. 21, but has a raised thumb-piece at its outer edge, for screwing up or down the collar which holds the vertical axis of the instrument. By this means the locking-plate and the instrument are both clamped to the tripod-stand, or released without the addition of extra clamp screws. Messrs. Troughton Simms also make a framed stand, shown in fig. 25, with an arrangement of plates shown in section in fig. 26, and in plan in fig. 27 (pages 130-132). With the usual form of tripod, the range over which the head may be shifted in adjusting the plumb-bob is necessarily very limited, but with a framed stand a larger opening in the base of the system can be introduced for this purpose. The theodolite is fixed at B by the ordinary screw attachment to the bossed plate marked C. The middle plate marked E has two pivot connexions, the centre lines of which meet at right angles to one another at the centre of the plate. To one of these pivot connexions, the top plate is attached...
