The Cornovia Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 224 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.6in. Many young women long to put the clock back to the post-war years when life seemed prettier and nicer. In this book Jessica Mann demolishes such preconceptions about their mothers or grandmothers young days, showing that in reality life was uglier and nastier. She recalls boredom and isolation, and suspects both the child-rearing experts and the government of a concerted push to get mothers back home after the war, so that there would be jobs for the returning boys. And she recalls the unacceptability of talking, or sometimes even knowing,...
