To preserve the similarity of the triangular spaces on the chart that correspond to the triangles ABH, c. the sides AH, AB must be increased in the same proportion that HB has been increased. Hence, when HB + IC. + MF increase and become the difference of longitude, the arcs AH + BI. +EM, or AO, will increase and become what is called the meridional difference of latitude between A and F; and, moreover, each of the lines into which AB, BC. EF are projected will be inclined to the parallels at the same angle as the course, since the triangles on the chart are similar to those on the globe; and as they cut the parallels at the same angle, they must be in one and the same straight line. Hence the meridional difference of latitude, difference of longitude, and the line into which the distance AF is projected, form a right-angled plane triangle, in which $\text{diff. long.} \cdot \tan. \text{course} = \text{mer. diff. lat.}$ or $\text{diff. long.} = \text{mer. diff. lat.} \cdot \tan. \text{course}$. Parallel Sailing. 4. To prove that $\text{distance} = \text{diff. long.} \cdot \cos. \text{lat.}$ When the course = 90, or the ship is sailing on a parallel, $\tan. \text{course} = \dots$
